

We would like to draw the attention of the authors of the articles to be published in "Manufacturing of Polymers"

The editors of the scientific and technical journal "Manufacturing of Polymers", for the sake of scientific integrity of published articles, has implemented a procedure for protecting the originality of the publications, the procedure most commonly referred to as "firewall ghostwriting and guest authorship".

In this regard:

1. The authors publishing in "Manufacturing of Polymers" are kindly asked to:
  - In unequivocally declare that they are the direct authors of the articles sent to the Editor, and that the text does not infringe the rights of third parties.
  - If the article was written with the participation / cooperation of other people, authors are requested to disclose their participation as authors / co-authors or to place their names in the acknowledgments; authors are kindly requested to specify the affiliation of these individuals and their contribution to the creation of publications (technical input, physical input, financial, other).
  - When an article is the result of cooperation within the framework of the research project, the author is requested to provide project financing sources and the contribution of research institutions, associations and other entities.
  - Authors are asked to prepare the article according to the principles contained in the "Guidelines for Authors" published, from time to time in the journal and on the website.
2. The author / authors submitting articles for publication in "Manufacturing of Polymers" thus express consent to the review process.
  - The procedure for reviewing articles in our journal, as reported earlier, is consistent with the guidelines of the Ministry of Science and Higher Education described in the brochure "Good practices in reviewing procedures in science", Warsaw 2011., Takes into account the principle of "firewall ghostwriting and guest authorship".
  - The editorial follows the formal assessment of the article.
  - Next, the article is redirected for review of merits. Reviewers are honest researchers with important, recognized achievements. Reviewers are people not employed in the Institute-or people who are members of the Editorial Board or people employed in the same unit as the Author.
  - Writing reviews are confidential. Text review, only through the Editor, then goes to the author, who is asked (substantively through the Editor) to respond to the reviews and / or to incorporate the comments or corrections, suggested by the reviewer.
  - A positive review is the basis for the publication of the article.
3. List of Reviewers is published in the journal once a year.
4. The main responsibility lies with the author reporting the article.
